

Edgar Saravia is the World Bank's Country Manager in Poland. He is a Bolivian citizen who has been with the World Bank since August 1997. At the World Bank he has held several technical and managerial positions, including Lead Private Sector Development Specialist, Acting Manager of the Privatization Services Group, Country Manager in Saudi Arabia and since November 2003 Country Manager in Poland. He has worked in several countries in Africa, South Asia, Latin America, the Middle East and Eastern and Central Europe.

Between 1988 and 1997, Mr. Saravia held several senior positions in the Government of Bolivia, including Undersecretary of the Treasury and Secretary of State at the Ministry of Capitalization where he led the technical work related to the reform and implementation of the privatization and capitalization program in Bolivia, as well as the reform of the pension system, including establishment of independent regulators and enactment of new legislation and regulations in the major utility sectors, the introduction of private pension fund administrators, and the privatization of all industrial and commercial enterprises.

Mr. Saravia has also held technical and managerial positions in private sector in the United States between 1979 and 1987. He is a mechanical engineer with an advanced degree in management engineering.