

The Krynica Economic Forum - How It Is Managed?

Abstract

The Economic Forum in Krynica is one of unique events in the Central Europe. However, it is neither the size nor the place that decide about its unique character. The very fact that the institution functioning on the border of the worlds of politics and economy has managed to survive for 18 years is an unbelievable success in the transforming Europe where the policy is emotional and often changes. How has it happened? How to ensure stabilization and development in these constantly changing conditions? Is it only a better organization and a wider offer that benefit to the Forum's increasing recognition in Europe?
